

SAASLESS FORGE

THE 10-MINUTE UPGRADE FOR BUSY OWNERS

5 PROMPTS TO CRUSH AI AS A BUSINESS OWNER

Connect the email and calendar you already use. Then run your day by just asking — from your phone, in plain English. No new apps.
No forms to fill in.

5

PROMPTS INSIDE

~10 MIN

ONE-TIME SETUP

YOUR PHONE

WORKS ANYWHERE

Each one works the same way. You'll see what the assistant hands back, then the exact words you say to make it happen. Say them out loud or type them — on your phone or your laptop.

It takes about two minutes, once. The steps are right below.

BEFORE YOU START

TURN IT ON — ABOUT 2 MINUTES, ONCE

1. Open Claude (the app on your phone, or claude.ai), go to Settings, and find Connectors.
2. Connect Google Calendar. Sign in with the Google account you use for work and approve access.
3. Do the same for Gmail. That's it — now Claude can see your schedule and your inbox, but only when you ask.

Needs a paid Claude plan. Your accounts stay yours — Claude only looks when you ask it to, and never sends or books anything without showing you first.

Prompt 01

SEE YOUR WHOLE DAY

Ask once, get your day back in plain English — without opening the calendar app.

NEEDS · GOOGLE CALENDAR

↓ WHAT IT HANDS YOU

CLAUDE

You've got 3 today — 9:00 Miller furnace job, 1:00 estimate downtown at 5th & Main, 4:00 callback with Sarah Reyes. Your morning's tight; you're open after 2.

WHAT YOU SAY

What's on my calendar today? Give me the short version.

Prompt 02

BOOK IT BY ASKING

Make an appointment without tapping through a single screen.

NEEDS · GOOGLE CALENDAR

↓ WHAT IT HANDS YOU

CLAUDE

Done — "Estimate: Tom Bradley" is on your calendar Thursday, 2:00–2:45pm.
Want me to send Tom a confirmation too?

WHAT YOU SAY

Book Tom Bradley for an estimate this Thursday at 2pm, 45 minutes.

Prompt 03

FIND THE TIME AND SCHEDULE IT

Let it find the gap you didn't know you had — and lock it in for you.

NEEDS · GOOGLE CALENDAR

↓ WHAT IT HANDS YOU

CLAUDE

You're free Wednesday at 10:30 or Friday at 8:30am. I've penciled in "Call supplier" for Wednesday 10:30 — say the word and I'll confirm it.

WHAT YOU SAY

Find me 30 free minutes this week to call my supplier, and put it on my calendar.

Prompt 04

CATCH UP ON YOUR INBOX

Skip the 40 unread. Get the two that actually need you.

NEEDS · GMAIL

↓ WHAT IT HANDS YOU

CLAUDE

Two need you: Karen Mills wants to reschedule Friday's job, and a supplier invoice is due Monday. The rest is newsletters and receipts — nothing urgent.

WHAT YOU SAY

Go through my inbox and tell me only what actually needs me today.

Prompt 05

THE ONE THAT FEELS LIKE MAGIC

Email and calendar, working together, from one sentence.

NEEDS · GMAIL + GOOGLE CALENDAR

↓ WHAT IT HANDS YOU

CLAUDE

Jenna asked for a Tuesday appointment. You're open Tuesday at 11. I've booked "Consult: Jenna Ortiz" and drafted a reply confirming 11:00 — want me to send it?

WHAT YOU SAY

Someone emailed asking for a Tuesday appointment. If I'm free, book it and draft a reply to confirm.

THIS IS THE DO-IT-YOURSELF VERSION

Now imagine it wired straight into your business — booking jobs, chasing quotes, answering customers — running without you asking.

That's what we build.

BOOK A FREE LOOK →

